

NO NATIONS SEEK WAR, SAYS STALIN

CANADA'S RED
SPY NETWORK
IS DESCRIBEDRECRUITING TRACED TO MEMBER OF PARLIAMENT

BY HARRY T. MONTGOMERY

Montreal, March 22 (AP)—Fred Rose, Communist and member of Canada's parliament, and Sam Carr, national organizer of the Labor-Progressive party, were "recruiting agents" in a Russian organization of agents in Canada, a former code clerk in the Soviet embassy at Ottawa asserted today.

The clerk, 24-year-old Igor Gouzenko, testified in police court that he exposed the Moscow-directed espionage ring because he had become convinced that Canadian democracy was better than the Russian way of life.

Secret Police Operate
He charged that Russia used the Communist party in Canada as a pivotal part of the Soviet spy network and had the NKVD, Soviet secret police—formerly known as the OGPU—in the Soviet embassy in Ottawa "and everywhere."

He named more than 40 Canadians and Russians in connection with the network. Eleven were Russians, most of them connected with the embassy.

Gouzenko, mystery man of the spy probe, testified at a preliminary hearing for Rose accused of sending secret scientific information to Soviet agents. Rose joined the Labor-Progressive party after the Communist party was outlawed during the war, and was the first Communist elected to the Canadian parliament.

Gouzenko testified:

1. That Canadian-Soviet friendship organizations were used as a "screen" to cover the "real policy," which he said included preparations for events which "could be disastrous for war."

2. That Russia was pursuing a "two-faced policy" in which the friendship organizations "had nothing to do with creating friendly relations with Canada" there were no such organizations in Russia, he said.

3. That Col. Nicholas Zolotov, former military attaché of the Ottawa embassy, his boss, was sent to Canada in July, 1943, "officially" as military attaché but "unofficially" to do intelligence, or espionage, work.

4. That the Russian ambassador, George N. Zaroubin, "had nothing to do" with the military attaché.

Messages For Moscow
Gouzenko said he worked as cipher clerk from July, 1943, until last fall in a "secret room" in the embassy, existence of which was known only to a few persons. It had double steel doors and steel bars on the windows.

The secret code he used in deciphering messages was kept in a multi-sealed bag which he himself sealed at night and then turned over to another embassy employee who kept it in a safe.

Some messages and documents were sent by couriers, Gouzenko said. They made one or two trips a month to Moscow, only "very rarely" by air because of fear of crashes in which the papers would not be destroyed.

Food Store Lootings
Continue In Hamburg

BY CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

Hamburg, March 22 (AP)—Looting of food stores by hungry Germans increased in Hamburg today and a British medical officer declared that the first definite signs of starvation were apparent among many residents of Germany's second largest city.

The police ordered food dealers to board up their shop windows as an emergency measure against bands of men, women and children who have stormed nearly 60 bread stores in the last four days. Guards were placed at the larger shops.

In the last 24 hours, 20 bread shops have been broken into by groups of men, women and children. Most of them demand bread without ration cards. When refused, they break windows and leap over counters, seize loaves of bread and escape before the police can arrive.

The British medical officer declared that yellow faces, extreme thinness and dejection—the first signs of starvation—were discernible among many Hamburg civilians.

Speaking from his experience in Holland where he had been during the widespread starvation there last year, he said:

"They (the Germans) are just like the Dutch when the famine swept Holland. People then were collapsing in the streets. I think it will be worse than that here."

Factory foremen in the Hamburg area reported a sharp increase in absenteeism among the workers since the slash of the food ration in the British zone from 1,500 to approximately 1,000 calories daily. (The average in the United States is about 2,500 calories daily, with the consumption higher for active workers.)

Reports increased of Germans collapsing at their work. One German hospital doctor said at least five persons were admitted in the last two days after falling on the streets because of undernourishment.

Headquarters of the First and Fourth Air Forces, at Mitchell Field and Hamilton Field, Calif., respectively, were assigned without change of stations to the Air Defense Command, which also was given the headquarters squadrons of the 10th and 14th Air Forces, both now inactivated.

Headquarters squadrons of the 12th Air Force and of the 53rd Troop Carrier Wing, both inactive, were transferred to the Tactical Air Command. The 53rd Wing is to be assigned to the Third Air Force.

A carefully worded announcement linked the undertaking with the Canadian Army's current "musk ox" expedition to the strategic far north area into which the Navy also has sent the aircraft carrier Midway for tests.

The Army Air Forces, at Canada's invitation, are cooperating with the musk ox expedition which started on a 3,130-mile, 81-day swing around northwest Canada this month to obtain data for military operations under extreme cold weather conditions.

Starting from Edmonton, Alberta, the B-29 flights "will be the closest approximation to actual military transport airborne operations under Arctic conditions ever attempted," the war department said. Specific dates for the start were not given but it was reported the planes were operationally equipped for Arctic operations in a month of "24-hour a day activity."

The flights will cover between 1,000 and 2,000 miles to the most northerly points reached by the musk ox ground party. One specific purpose was given as the study of "radio propagation," which was not further explained.

U.S. Air Force
Returning To Active Status

Washington, March 22 (AP)—The wartime 9th and 15th Combat Air Forces were ordered back to an active status today as a part of the postwar reorganization of the Army Air Forces.

Shifting of several headquarters also was announced in the reorganization, which was ordered this month by General Carl Spaatz, setting up three major combat commands.

Ninth Airforce headquarters will be reactivated by March 31 at Biggs Field, El Paso, Texas. Headquarters of the 15th Airforce will be activated at Colorado Springs, Colo., with personnel and equipment coming from the Second Air Force there, which is to be inactivated.

Personnel of the 19th Tactical Air Command now at Biggs Field will be utilized in manning and equipping headquarters of the Ninth.

The war department said headquarters of the Continental Air Forces at Bolling Field, Washington, D. C., would be redesignated headquarters of the Strategic Air Command under General George C. Kenney. It will move to nearby Andrews Field, Maryland, about July 1.

Commands Moved
Headquarters of the Tactical Air Command under Maj. Gen. E. R. Quesada was ordered constituted by March 31 at Tampa, Fla. Headquarters of the Air Defense Command under Lt. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer is to be activated at Mitchell Field, N. Y., by the end of March.

In other changes, Third Air Force headquarters will be transferred, less personnel and equipment, to the Greenville, S. C., Army Air Base and will be assigned to the Tactical Air Command. Also assigned to this command is the Ninth Troop Carrier Command at Stout Field, Ind., which is to be inactivated.

Headquarters of the First and Fourth Air Forces, at Mitchell Field and Hamilton Field, Calif., respectively, were assigned without change of stations to the Air Defense Command, which also was given the headquarters squadrons of the 10th and 14th Air Forces, both now inactivated.

MORE MINERS
RESUME WORK
AT ISHPERINGSTATE POLICE USED TO BREAK STRIKE,
CIO CHARGES

Ishpeming, Mich., March 22 (AP)—Charges that state police were being used as strike-breakers were made today by an official of the CIO United Steel Workers as a back-to-work movement was reported continuing among 2,000 striking workers on the Marquette Iron Range.

Thomas Shane of Detroit, director of District 29, USW-CIO, made the charge in a telegram to Governor Harry Kelly, declaring:

"I am authoritatively informed by representatives of the United Steel Workers of America CIO in the Upper Peninsula that Michigan state police are being used to aid in the breaking of the strike of iron ore miners at the properties of the Cleveland Cliffs Iron company, Inland Steel company and North Range Mining company."

"Police activities on the scene far overstep their proper role of maintaining peace and are an encouragement to strikebreakers. Request you take steps to end these actions and to guarantee the right of striking ore miners to peacefully picket these properties."

Pickets "Intimidated"
Shane said information from union officials in the strike area indicated "the state police presence was being used to intimidate pickets."

"Officials of the union tell me there were eight carloads of state police up there today and that the police were being very busy about it," Shane declared.

A spokesman at Governor Kelly's office said Shane's telegram had been received but that preliminary investigation showed only two state police were at the mines today as some of the strikers returned to their jobs.

"They (the state police) went to the mines at the specific request of the sheriff at Marquette and were only observers. They did not leave their auto, but just sat and watched developments," he added.

The back-to-work movement which began Thursday when 243 miners went to work in three mines grew today with 584 employees reporting for work and enabling companies to start operations in a total of nine mines. Four others remained idle as the strike passed its 43rd day.

The companies, which have terminated their contracts with the Steelworkers Union because of "violation of the no-strike clause," offered workers 10-cent hourly pay increases. The union, holding out for the 18¢ cent increase asked when it called the strike at all iron mines in the Lake Superior district, charges the companies.

Michigan Veterans
Trust Fund Board
Appointed By Kelly

Lansing, March 22 (AP)—Governor Kelly today appointed the six man board which will administer the state's $500,000 veterans trust fund set up by the 1946 special legislative session.

The six, all veterans of World War I, are:

David J. Gotthold, of Detroit, and Dunlap C. Clark, of Kalamazoo, American Legion representatives; Otto Beaudoin, of Detroit, and W. Emerson Scott, of Caro, Veterans of Foreign Wars; Boniface Malle, of Detroit, Disabled American Veterans; and John R. Worden, of Detroit, American Veterans of World War II (AMVETS).

Smith Not Running,
Backs Vandenberg

Detroit, March 22 (AP)—Gerald L. K. Smith of Detroit, national director of the America First party, said today he would not seek the Republican nomination for U. S. senator but would support the incumbent, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R).

"Even though I don't agree entirely with Vandenberg, I'll support him," Smith declared.

The America First unsuccessfully opposed Senator Homer Ferguson (R) for the Republican senatorial nomination in 1942.

ALPENA LEADER DIES

Alpena, Mich., March 22 (AP)—Former State Legislator Henry K. Gustin, 77, died in General hospital unexpectedly Thursday night. The funeral will be held in Bay City, his birthplace. The prominent lawyer and realtor is survived by his wife, Florence, a brother and a sister.

Atty. Torval E. Strom,
Age 60, Dies In Florida

Atty. Torval Elmore Strom, who served as prosecutor and acting prosecuting attorney of Delta county for more than 13 years, died at 1:15 a. m. (EST) yesterday at North Miami, Fla., where he and Mrs. Strom were vacationing. He was 60 years old. Death was caused by a cerebral hemorrhage.

Last public service of Atty. Strom, who for more than three decades was actively engaged in law practice in Escanaba, was as acting prosecutor from July 1, 1943, to Feb. 15, 1946. During that period he conducted the office of prosecuting attorney in absence of Prosecutor J. Clyde McGonagle while the latter was serving in the U. S. Navy.

The return of Prosecutor McGonagle made it possible for Mr. Strom to take his first extended vacation in many years. Mrs. Strom left for Florida Feb. 16, and her husband joined her in Chicago a few days later. From there they went to St. Petersburg, Fla., and then to North Miami, where his death came unexpectedly early yesterday morning.

In Public Service
Born April 1, 1885, at Neenah, Wis., he came to Escanaba with his parents and attended Escanaba public schools, graduating from high school in 1903. Later he enrolled as a law student at the University of Michigan, where he graduated in 1908. He was admitted to the bar on June 16 of that year, and two days later opened an office in Escanaba.

His first experience in public life was as Delta county circuit court commissioner in 1909 and 1910. He was elected prosecuting attorney and served from January, 1911, to December, 1914. Later he was reelected after being out of office for three years and served from January, 1917, to December, 1922, the period of World War I.

He served as a member of the Escanaba city charter commission in 1913 and in 1920, and from September, 1933, until November, 1935, was attorney for the Home Owners Loan Corporation for several counties of the Upper Peninsula. In November, 1935, he was appointed as special attorney in the U. S. Department of Justice, assigned to the lands division, a

FIREWORKS DUE
AT CIO MEETINGEstimate 2,000 UAW-CIO
Atlantic City

Atlantic City, N. J., March 22 (AP)—Delegates to the CIO United Auto Workers convention streamed into this seaside resort city tonight in anticipation of fireworks in the union's first postwar convention.

An estimated 2,000 representatives of UAW-CIO locals from coast to coast will open their nine-day meeting at 1 p. m. (EST) tomorrow, facing a series of important verdicts on union policy and strategy.

Foremost in hotel lobby discussions on convention eve, however, was the virtually assured battle between R. J. Thomas and Walter P. Reuther over the union presidency.

Both Reuther, a UAW-CIO vice president and leader of the General Motors strike, and Thomas kept mum on the subject today.

Thomas, president since 1938, said yesterday he would accept any challenge from Reuther or invited his lieutenant of years service to make the race. Reuther may make his decision at a caucus of his followers tomorrow night.

The convention will assemble with considerable odds and ends still remaining in its long strike against General Motors corporation. Only a few strikers have returned to work since Tuesday's union ratification of peace terms on national issues, including the 18¢ cents an hour wage increase.

Theaters Picketed
In Detroit, But No
Shows Interrupted

Detroit, March 22 (AP)—Picket lines of striking film handlers appeared at several downtown theaters today, but managers tonight reported no interruption of operations.

As the dispute entered its second week, the strikers extended their picketing activity from the Film Exchange building where they have been parading to the theaters. Film, however, is being delivered by mail.

The strike stems from a jurisdictional dispute between the AFL International Alliance of Theater Employees and the AFL Teamsters Union.

SOVIET CHIEF
FAITH IN UNOTENSION EASED BY STATEMENT FROM MOSCOW

BY EDDIE GILMORE

Moscow, March 22 (AP)—Prime Minister Generalissimo Stalin today expressed conviction that neither the nations of the world nor their armies are seeking another war, and affirmed his confidence in the United Nations Organization as "a serious instrument" for preserving peace.

The Russian leader made his assertions in a written reply to three questions put to him by the Associated Press last Tuesday. His reply was dated today.

Peace Hopes Brighten

(Stalin's forthright statements immediately produced world-wide reaction, and were hailed generally with gratification and hope. U. S. congressmen quoted it as indicating greater success for the United Nations Organization, and as a renunciation of any militaristic ambitions by Russia. Observers in London said the interview had eased tension.)

My letter to Stalin began:

"In view of the many questions being asked in various parts of the world and the anxiety expressed over keeping the peace, may I respectfully address several questions to you?"

This introduction was followed by three questions which are quoted below together with Stalin's answers.

Question: "What importance do you attach to the United Nations Organization as a means of preserving world peace?"

Answer: "I attach great importance to the United Nations Organization as it is a serious instrument for the preservation of peace and international security. The strength of this organization consists in that it is based on the principle of equality of states and not on the principle of the domination of one state over others. If the United Nations Organization succeeds in preserving in the future this principle of equality it will unquestionably play a great and positive role in guaranteeing universal peace and security."

Question: "What in your opinion is responsible for the current fear of war felt by many peoples in many lands?"

Answer: "I am convinced that neither the nations nor their armies are seeking another war. They desire peace and are endeavoring to secure peace. This means that the 'current fear of war' is not being caused by this side. I think that the 'present fear of war' is being brought about by the actions of certain political groups engaged in the propaganda of a new war and by these means sowing seed of discord and uncertainty."

Question: "What should the governments of the freedom loving countries do at the present time to preserve the peace and tranquility of the world?"

Discharged Men Can Reenlist At Previous Grades

Men who have been discharged from the Army over 90 days since May 12, 1945, are now eligible to reenlist at a grade as high or nearly as high as they held during service. Capt. John E. McCarthy, U. S. Army recruiting officer, postoffice building, Escanaba, announced this week.

Men who can qualify for classification as specialists on a basis of prior training and experience in the service may be enlisted at grades from private first class as a duty soldier to technical sergeant in certain specialist classifications.

The number of months a discharged soldier served in his specialty is the prime determinant of the man's re-enlistment grade. Capt. McCarthy explained. He added that at the present time grades were open in nearly every Army category and he urged every man with any interest to contact the recruiting office at the postoffice building for complete information.

The captain further explained that re-enlistment grades were apt to be lowered from time to time as the Army needs are met.

Andrew J. LaBresh Of Rock Held On Dyer Act Charge

Green Bay, Wis.—Andrew Joseph LaBresh, 19, Rock, was taken to Milwaukee to await appearance in federal court, following arraignment before U. S. Commissioner John D. Kehoe on Friday afternoon on Dyer Act charges. He failed to post $1,000 bond.

LaBresh is charged with stealing a car belonging to A. J. Kleinheinz of Green Bay on March 14, and transporting it in interstate commerce, knowing the same to have been stolen. The car was recovered at Gladstone, and LaBresh was arrested by state police at his home in Rock.

In statements to police here he admitted writing several checks on Kleinheinz's checkbook, which he found in the glove compartment and cashing them at various points.

In view of the fact that LaBresh faces federal prosecution, an auto theft charge in municipal court here is expected to be dropped.

PRESTON PLEA IS NOT GUILTY

Ex-Seaman Charged With Careless Use Of Gun; Hearing Wednesday

Robert Preston, 19 year old Escanaban, charged with careless use of firearms as the result of an accident late last month in which his young wife was wounded in the head by a .22 caliber rifle bullet from a gun in his hands, pleaded not guilty when arraigned here before Justice Henry E. Ranguette yesterday and trial was set for Wednesday afternoon, March 27, at two o'clock.

The complaint against Preston, an ex-naval man recently discharged after several years of service, was signed by Undersheriff John Fredrickson. Preston and his wife, who reside here with Mrs. Preston's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolore Pare, 1212 North 16th street, were visiting at the home of Preston's mother in Wells at the time of the accident on Feb. 26. Preston had been target practicing earlier that day and upon his return placed the rifle on the kitchen table in his mother's home.

Shortly afterward, when picking up the gun to put it away, it discharged, the bullet striking Mrs. Preston in the forehead, then ricocheting about the room, the sheriff's officers reported.

Mrs. Preston was confined to St. Francis hospital as a result of the injury until March 13, but was able to return to home then.

RENT SURVEY BEING MADE

Haines Findings, Survey Of Statistics Bureau Determine Control

"We can make no comment on the rent situation here or elsewhere in the Upper Peninsula until we have inquired fully into the matter," William Haines, acting district executive of OPA Region 3, Cleveland, said at yesterday's meeting on rent control, held at the Sherman hotel.

"When the survey is completed and a report is made from Washington, then we can say whether or not this and surrounding communities should have a rent control and merit the establishing of a special rent control board here.

"We don't want to take on any more territory than we have now, but if the situation so demands, it is our duty to establish such a unit in the community. If landlords insist on increasing rents now that the war is over, then control must be used," he said.

Mr. Haines pointed out that there is no rent control in Upper Michigan at present, but it would depend on the fact-finding committee now making spot surveys in the U. P. whether a rent control board be established.

Mr. Haines suggested that it was the community's responsibility as a whole to take it upon themselves to establish a fair rent level. His advice was a Fair Rent Committee be established where the tenant and landowner go before a mediator if any differences occur. He also suggested that the community help the housing shortage by sponsoring a program of reconverting houses to add another apartment and the encouraging of doubling up of families in one house until the present critical housing situation is either met or time and circumstances have put the housing situation back where it was before the war.

"What your community is faced with now is the matter of reconversion. The soldier is returning to civilian life and it is not fair to have to come back to increased rents," he said.

L. L. Farrell, district OPA director at Detroit, also spoke, stating the reason for the survey now being made by the bureau of statistics in the locality was due to a number of complaints received. Complaints have increased since V-J day instead of decreasing and their purpose was to find out a suitable way to regulate them.

"During the war," he said, "it was sufficient to send a landowner a letter asking him to cooperate and it generally was done. But this patriotic sense has left and rents have increased, and complaints are being received in Detroit, Cleveland and Washington, D. C. Result is the survey. The result of that and Mr. Haines' findings here will determine if rent control should be placed on the territory."

SHORTAGES HIT BUILDING BOOM

Construction Supplies Not Yet Available In Quantity

The anticipated housing construction boom in Escanaba will not develop this year unless building supplies rise in volume sharply in the next few weeks, local building supply dealers reported yesterday.

Virtually all types of building materials are scarce, particularly rough lumber. Supplies are being received periodically but not in sufficient volume to give promise for any generous housing construction program. In addition, most of the rough lumber received now is green. Lumber dealers declared that they do not know why the lumber supply continues so acute, unless it is because of the fact that so many millions of feet of lumber are being shipped overseas. There is no OPA ceiling price on lumber for export, with the result that many lumber producers have turned to the more lucrative export market.

Building sheathing also is difficult to obtain now. It was reported that only one company is still producing this material because of inability to produce and sell the commodity at a profit within the OPA price structure. Price increases expected soon probably will return this commodity to the market, local dealers indicated.

Some Homes Being Built
The building priority system may funnel additional supplies into the housing program, particularly for new homes for war veterans who get preferred status. Non-essential construction will be outlawed soon by executive order, halting construction of all commercial buildings that fail to receive authority of the Civilian Production Administration.

A number of new homes are in construction in Escanaba now and the construction rate probably will increase as warmer weather arrives. There can be no great boom, however, unless the volume of building supplies increases tremendously.

Escanaba showed the sharpest increase of any Upper Peninsula city in building permit valuations for February but the total is still insufficient to warrant any claims as a building boom. Escanaba's building permit valuations last month totaled $23,820, compared with only $4,250 in January. The valuation of building permits in other Upper Peninsula cities for February follows: Iron Mountain $2,950; Marquette $19,800; Menominee $3,300; Sault Ste. Marie $7,500. There was no building permits issued in the Upper Peninsula in February, 1945, as the war restrictions on construction were still in effect then.

George Pegg is credited with having made one of the longest field goals ever made on the Sault court when he sank a long shot from two feet behind the second line in the Hulbert game.

The lineup follows: Bailey, Mattson, Lefebvre, Kane, Pegg, and Thompson.

Institute Started For Home Builders, Will Meet Tuesdays

An Escanaba Home Builder's Institute was organized Wednesday evening at the Escanaba junior high school. The purpose of the Institute is to help future home builders with the many problems confronting them. John A. Lemmer, John Edick, and Charles Follo led the meeting.

Future meetings, when those who plan to build homes in Escanaba will be invited to attend, are planned for each Tuesday evening, starting with April 2. The first meeting will be devoted to the three topics on home building: financing, purchasing the site and building codes, to be given by Carl G. Nelson, George F. McEwen and A. V. Aronson respectively. Short talks will be given by these men on each subject and then questions of the group will be answered. Part of this first meeting will be to find out the major questions on the minds of the people and the Institute program will be based according to their wishes.

On Tuesdays, April 9 and 23, the Institute expects to stress plans and specifications, types of architecture, types of construction and prefabricated homes.

On April 30 and possibly May 7 the topics are planned as: plumbing, heating, wiring, lighting, decorating, furnishing, and landscaping.

Those who attended Wednesday evening's meeting were: Earl E. Frechette, Leonard C. Ward, John D. Boyle, Albin Nelson, John A. Lemmer, John Edick, Charles Follo, Peter N. Logan, Robert Clayton, Howard McKie, Steve Rodman, Erling Arntzen, Alfred Brandt, Tom Wilkinson, Werner N. Olson, Sverre Sviland, Richard Wood, A. V. Aronson, George F. McEwen, Carl J. Nelson, John Fauri, and Mike Farrell.

Circular Home Of Light Metal Put On Display

Washington—A circular home of aluminum, with side walls and partitions suspended from a concealed central steel mast, was displayed in model form here. It is a Fuller house, developed from the original "Dymaxion" design by R. Buckminster Fuller in 1929. Its construction and use are now claimed to be practical because of the developments in light metals during the war and the use of techniques in mass-production that came with the construction of giant airplanes. It will be produced by an airplane manufacturer, the Beech Aircraft Corporation of Wichita, Kans.

This new Dymaxion is constructed of aluminum, stainless steel, and plastics. It has 1017 square feet of floor space and includes a combined living and dining room, two bedrooms, completely equipped kitchen, two complete bathrooms, and an entrance hall. A heating and air conditioning equipment comes with the house. The price, erected and ready for use, is $8,500.

This $8,500 price includes the kitchen equipment in which is a cooking range, refrigerator, dishwasher, sink, washing machine and dryer, and a waste disposal unit. With its ventilating system the inside air can be changed in six minutes. The exterior requires no painting. Mechanical construction is such that the building can withstand 180-mile hurricanes, it is claimed.

The house weighs only four tons, one-tenth the weight of conventional frame houses. In the condition in which it is shipped from the factory, it can be erected on its foundation, after it reaches its site, in two days by an eight-man crew.

DR. GABRIELSON QUILTS APRIL 1

Served 10 Years As Head Of Fish And Wildlife Service

BY PETER EDSON

NEA Washington Correspondent

Washington (NEA)—President Truman having said that the international situation was going to come out all right, the day being warm, the magnolias being in bloom and the cherry blossoms all ready to pop, it seemed like a good idea to let the "fish and fowl" take care of itself and go talk to somebody about fish. Best authority, and the logical candidate for any such serious interview, was, of course, Dr. Ira Gabrielson, chief of the Fish and Wildlife Service.

The other day Doc Gabrielson signed the last letter in his third floor Interior Building office and went fishing for good. He is retiring from his job after 30 years of government service. The resignation isn't effective until April 1, but "Gabe" had a little leave coming, and he and Mrs. Gabrielson, having rustled four new tires for their old car, headed for Florida to lie in the sun, watch the dickie birds—and fish.

Gabe was one of the most amazing characters in Washington. He is bigger than all other doors himself, weighing over 250, and he has one of the grandest smiles and friendliest faces in this whole capital community of verbal cutthroats and backstabbers. It probably comes from his lifetime interest in the funny, furry, and feathery friends who are, after all, pretty decent, compared with humans.

Started as a Boy in Iowa
Gabe got his start collecting bird eggs as a boy in Iowa. He found out he could get paid for it, and he worked his way through college collecting, skinning, and stuffing birds for scientific exhibits. In his lifetime he has collected about 5000 is one of the best in the country.

He went to work for the government in 1915 for $900 a year. His first job was as an economic ornithologist, and he went on from there. In government service he has hiked and hunted and fished, and indulged in his favorite pastime of "watching the dickie birds," in every state, all of the Canadian provinces but one, and about half of Mexico. He has probably seen as much of the great North American outdoors as anyone, and he has certainly had more fun out of life than any other individual in government service.

Yet he can be tough. He has an unholly hatred for predatory animals, and he is equally embittered against predatory human beings. Lawyers are among his particular pet peeves. "If they'd just declare all lawyers migratory animals and let me regulate the open season on 'em, we'd soon be rid of the pests," he says, with a twinkle in his gray eyes.

Fought for Conservation
"Salmon packers and duck hunters" are among the other breeds of predatory humans he's against. Those are generic terms, to Gabe, for all the species of people who don't want to practice conservation of America's fish and wildlife. He's tired of arguing with them. That's why he's going fishing for good.

In the 10 years Dr. Gabrielson has been chief of the Fish and Wildlife Service, he has worked tirelessly to increase America's game population. He has seen game preserves tripled in acreage. He has fought stream pollution and worked for tighter game laws, in order to keep predatory humans from wiping out wildlife, as they unquestionably would if left to their own evil devices.

Next step in the campaign, he says, is to educate sportsmen to be sportsmen, instead of just killers. Fishing with barbless hooks has taken hold among some fishermen. It takes more skill to land a fish with a barbless hook. But such a hook enables a fisherman who gets a little fellow up close and sees it's too small for the frying pan to let the line go slack, permitting the fish to throw the hook and go on about its business of growing up until big enough to eat.

Also, hunters have to be educated to pass up shots which they know will merely cripple their game, or which will leave a kill un retrievable.

State Governors Average 54 Years Old, Youngest 38

New York—The average age of Governors of the 48 states is about 54 years.

Although in the large majority of states, the minimum age for gubernatorial candidates is 30, and in at least one state it is as low as 21 years, the youngest Governors in this country are now 38 years of age, a Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. study shows. They are Ellis G. Arnall of Georgia, who was 36 when elected to his present office, and John O. Pastore of Rhode Island, who only recently moved up to the position from the Lieutenant Governorship.

One-third of the present Governors, 16 out of the 48, are under 50 years of age. Fifteen Governors, virtually another third of the total, are between 50 and 54 years of age. Of the 17 Governors who are beyond this age, only seven are 65 or older. The two oldest Governors are Walter E. Edge of New Jersey, who is 72, and Walter S. Goodland of Wisconsin, who is 82.

The lowest average age of Governors is found in the New England States, where the average of the population is higher than in the country as a whole. Their average age is 47.5 years, and of the six, three are under 45. Governors in the East South Central States, on the other hand, are at the other extreme. There the average age of 62.5 years is 15 years above that of the New England Governors.

Dr. Gabrielson looks for a big increase in the number of fishermen and hunters this year. That happened after the last war, and it's going to happen again. That's why conservation is all the more important.

Army Inequalities

THE Army plan to abolish the distinctions in uniforms between officers and enlisted men after mid-1948 offers some hope that the military authorities are beginning to recognize the inequalities that exist in the armed forces. There are many more striking inequalities besides the differences in dress but at least this is a start in the proper direction.

If we are to have a democratic army, there is no better way to start than by establishing democratic dress styles, with officers and enlisted men alike wearing the same type uniforms. There will be distinction enough in the insignias, which are sufficient to differentiate an officer from an enlisted man.

It is not enough to change dress styles, however, and call the result a "citizen's army". There is greater need for a change in the military judicial system, for the elimination of special privileges for officers and for the establishment of a system that does not bar the enlisted man from attaining rank higher than a master sergeant, without all of the rigamarole that goes with the rare promotion of an enlisted man to the commissioned ranks.

Coast to Coast

ONE of the railroad men's dream of many years—a through passenger train service from the Atlantic to the Pacific—how appears to be nearing realization.

Strangely enough, the impetus for the consummation of this long-discussed plan has come from one who has been regarded as a non-railroader. He is Robert R. Young, chairman of the Chesapeake & Ohio railway, who entered into the railroad business as a Wall Street financier.

By advertisements in the newspapers and magazines and other means, Young has been promoting the idea of daily train service coast-to-coast for some months. The constant prodding has brought results, for recently a cooperative plan for providing this service has been announced by the railroads.

Tentative plans are for the through train to leave New York City on the New York Central and Pennsylvania railroads on alternate days. At Chicago, the train will be taken over by one of three railroads, depending upon whether it is headed for Los Angeles, San Francisco or Portland.

Actually, the coast-to-coast passenger train is not entirely a new idea. The Canadian National and Canadian Pacific railroads have been running through trains from Montreal to Vancouver for some years. Special trains, of course, have been run across the continent in the United States, but on regular trains cross-country travelers always have had to change trains at Chicago.

Whether the new venture will pay out remains to be seen, but it does demonstrate that the railroads are on their toes and willing to make radical changes.

More Pulp Needed

NINETEEN million tons of paper and paper board are being consumed annually, a figure that is 50 per cent greater than the amount used in 1929.

G. H. Chidester of the Forest Products Laboratory, Madison, Wis., expresses the opinion that consumption of paper products will increase another 25 per cent in the next five years. This should set at rest any fears that in the distant future science might develop other products, which would obviate the need for wood.

The need for forests will increase rather than diminish in the future, for science is developing many new products from wood. In recent years, wood in the form of plywood and plastics has been taking the place of metals.

The Upper Peninsula's iron and copper, once taken from the earth, cannot be replaced. It is much different with our timber resources, however, for forests can be restored through tree planting and other conservation practices. The Upper Peninsula has many idle, cutover acres that are unsuitable for agriculture, but are ideal for the growing of trees. It is for this reason that the Escanaba Daily Press has embarked on a "Trees Forever" program, which it is hoped will serve to stimulate interest in tree planting by schools, 4-H clubs, community organizations, farmers and other land owners.

Reforestation is a plan by which the present generation can provide a heritage of forest wealth for the future generations.

Food, Not Politics

UNRRA has agreed to turn over $250,000,000 worth of foodstuffs to Russia. At the same time, our War Shipping Administration has agreed to provide nine Liberty ships to help carry some 600,000 tons of Russian grain from Black Sea ports to France.

Food is a potent political weapon. And, on the basis of these bare statements, Russia seems somewhat like a politician borrowing money to pay for campaign cigars. There may be extenuating circumstances, and if there are, now would be a good time for UNRRA to come out with them. The world relief agency should assure the world that food is not being wasted or delayed at a time of dire emergency when millions of lives are in danger and every relief effort should be concentrated on the speediest delivery of the greatest possible quantity.

Bottoms Up

THE magnitude of the liquor industry and the tremendous volume of liquor consumed in Michigan is reflected in the state liquor control commission report for 1945, which revealed that 1.36 gallons of distilled spirits were sold in the state last year for every man, woman and child in Michigan.

Since quite a sizable percentage of the adult public doesn't drink alcoholic liquors at all, and none of the children are supposed to do so, it is apparent that the drinking public has been hitting the bottle quite heavily. The per capita figure of 1.36 gallons figures out at the rate of nearly seven pints per person per year. That figure may not seem unduly high until one considers the fact that this includes every citizen of the state—every man, every woman, every child.

Those who look with alarm at these figures will find little room for consolation in the fact that Washington D. C. has a per capita liquor consumption rate of five quarts, or ten pints per capita.

INTELLIGENT RECREATION

(Sault Ste. Marie Evening News)

One of the foremost students of adult education in Michigan is Dr. Howard Y. McClusky, director of this activity at the University of Michigan. He has spoken in Sault Ste. Marie and we feel that his sympathetic interest and intelligent approach in such matters means much to the program in this state.

At a recent meeting in Saginaw he advised his listeners that the way to combat juvenile delinquency is to provide youth more "wriggle space." In any city that means adequate playgrounds and the kind of recreational activity that will go a long way toward keeping young people busy in leisure time projects. One of the great advantages of this north country is that we have plenty of room to carry on all kinds of youth planning that will give opportunity for expression. The youth movements that we sponsor can be expanded still more so that we make available to hundreds more the hunting and fishing and camping as well as ball playing and hockey that are now being enjoyed by a comparative few.

The growth of the Boy Scouts is a healthy sign that we are making headway. The figures of attendance at the Youth Center show that the young people of this community are taking advantage of certain opportunities. It would be splendid cause for congratulation if the adults were making as good a showing. Adult delinquency is a real problem both in large cities and smaller communities. This Lenten season is a good time to take stock and change to a manner of living with healthier standards.

NOT SUCH A BAD FELLOW!

(Christian Science Monitor)

As warmer weather comes to America, a few words of appreciation seem to be in order for one whose persistent chirping and gamine-like antics have done much to relieve the tedium of winter—the sparrow. On sunny days, his one-note solo seemed like an oasis of music in a desert of silence.

The sparrow has drawn to himself an unusually large amount of criticism for so small a bird. Because he impudently builds his makeshift nest of dry grasses too close to dwellings, and because some of the construction materials seem always to be detaching themselves to the detriment of otherwise immaculate lawns, he has been regarded as untidy. Human beings, irked with sparrow, frequently overlook the great good he does by keeping insect population under control, while some other birds are showing a marked and damaging preference for fruits.

The sparrow is not in the United States of his own volition, having been brought to Boston in 1851 to check a serious worm invasion which was threatening trees in the parks. Those who have taken the trouble to observe his habits are puzzled how he came by his unfavorable reputation. While undoubtedly mischievous, he is seldom destructive. Next to the robin, he is the friendliest of the birds. Three rousing chirps, then, for this dandelion of the feathered tribe, "With all his faults, we love him still!"

PRONUNCIATION OF LATIN

(Scrapbook Item)

Imperial, California: Why take John Dee to task for his pronunciation "OOL-tee-MAH-tum" for ultimatum? Colby, you're wrong! You should give him credit for disregarding the utterly foolish contention that there exists a so-called Anglicized version of Latin. There is only ONE Latin, the Classic, pronounced as the Romans pronounced it, and you should leave it severely alone, etc., etc.—F. F. A. M., Litt. D., Philol. D.

Answer: Sorry, alphabetical sir, but ultimatum can no more be considered "classic" Latin than thousands of other such Modern English words of Latin origin as: major, genius, ratio, janitor, etc. Would you give them the "Roman" pronunciations, "mah-yore, gay-nee-ooss, rah-tee-oh, yah-ni-to-re"? I think not.

World Events Analyzed

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—The experts who deal in food reserves around the world thought they had the major sources of surplus supply fairly well ticketed. However, about Russian food resources, as with almost everything else Russia, they knew next to nothing. They were, to put it mildly, surprised when the USSR suddenly offered to make available to France 500,000 tons of wheat and 100,000 tons of barley.

One of the remarkable things about this offer was the way in which it was made. News of it came in a political speech made in France by Maurice Thorez, head of the Communist party there. The French foreign office had never heard of it.

Thorez knew what he was doing. Schooling in Moscow, he is a resourceful politician. He was telling the French that their friends in Russia were willing to make enormous sacrifices to help them. With the French elections coming up in May, you could not have better propaganda.

—BID FOR RED VOTES—
An ironically humorous footnote to this piece of power politics did not get into the news. There appears to have been considerable doubt that shipping would be available to move the wheat from Black Sea ports. The Communists believed that they could make a cheap gesture.

But strenuous efforts are now being directed from Washington to make sure that at least a part of that wheat is moved. For every ton of Russian wheat that goes to France, a ton of Canadian, U. S. or Australian wheat is available for the desperate famine areas in the Far East.

By permitting Thorez to make this gesture, which is a frank bid for Communist votes in France, the high command of the Politburo in Moscow has shown its hand more openly than at any time in the recent past. It is almost too crude.

The contrast with the other nations that fought the war as Allies is too sharp. England, the United States, Canada and Australia have been putting their surplus food into a common pool. Part of it goes to UNRRA. It is distributed to needy peoples regardless of their politics. It goes to Italy, Yugoslavia, Poland, Greece.

Two states in the Soviet Union—the Ukraine and white Russia—applied to UNRRA for $250,000,000 of aid. Thus far, they have received more than 100,000 tons of foodstuffs, which included no grain.

At the same time that he holds out the promise of Soviet wheat, Thorez denounces the "corrupt" and "decadent" capitalist democracies. He accuses them of having imperialist designs on France. The line of the Communists in France is very much like the line that was used by the Nazis to attack the western powers.

—KEY COMMUNIST FIGURE—
Coming from Thorez, it is particularly significant. He is a key figure in world Communism, just as the French Communist party is considered a key to power in Western Europe. It was scarcely an accident that the signal for a shift in the U. S. Communist party came from France.

We in America have not done too well in this matter of helping to relieve the world's hunger. For too long, the administration ignored what was apparent at least at year ago. This was true even though polls of public opinion indicated a readiness to make sacrifices to help other peoples.

But no responsible official in this country has ever suggested that we use our surplus food for political purposes. That would be contrary to a deep impulse in the American character, which is to help stricken peoples wherever they are without regard to race or creed.

From UNRRA's retiring director, Herbert H. Lehman, comes a sane proposal. In his final report, he suggests a world food board that would deal with all resources on an emergency basis. It would replace the present combined food board made up of representatives of England, Canada and the U. S.

If we are to compete with Russia, then, as Raymond Swing pointed out in a recent broadcast, it is better to compete with wheat than with bombs. We have resources far beyond the USSR today.

Five hundred U. S. engineers and experts, with some machines from this country, could begin a transformation of the middle East. They could immeasurably expand standards of living which today are appallingly low. This is competition for life, and not for death.

absorbed Latin words, as well as words from all other tongues, and converted them into English words with English pronunciations. As a matter of fact, all words in English have been borrowed from other languages.

Dr. W. W. Skeat, in his Etymological Dictionary of the English Language (Oxford Press) shows these sources as making up the so-called English language:

French	35%
Anglo-Saxon	25%
Latin	16%
Greek	14%
All others	10%

Cogitate is Latin: Who would pronounce it "koe-ghee-tah-yay"? Humor is Latin: Who would pronounce it "hoo-more"? Vapor is Latin: Who would pronounce it "wah-pore"?

So it is with the word ultimatum, which has been English for centuries. No reputable authority known to me even lists such a non-English pronunciation as "OOL-tee-MAH-tum." Even crusty old Noah Webster, who had many pretty weird pronunciations in his original Dictionary (1828) listed only ULL-ti-MAY-tum, which still is the only pronunciation to be found in any accepted dictionary.

"OOL-tee-MAH-tum" strikes me as going to a lot of trouble to be wrong.

Unemployment Problem

Good Morning!

SUPPLY AND DEMAND—It is at this season of the year that inquiries and orders for smelt come to the Hansen & Jensen Fish Market in Escanaba from all parts of the Middle West. And it is right now, when the demand is high, that the supply of smelt is non-existent.

Reason is that commercial fishing is at a standstill. The ice is too weak to permit ice fishing operations, open water fishing is still days and perhaps weeks away, and the smelt run up the streams in Delta

Dunathan county has not yet started.

Art Jensen of the local fish market reports that before ice fishing halted a few of the many orders were filled. Only a few, however, because the supply was not ample although better than at any time in the past three years.

SMELT ROYALTY—It's now history, but most folks remember the excitement that marked the spring smelt runs of five and 10 and 15 years ago. Almost every community that had a river or a stream nearby sponsored a smelt jamboree, carnival, fiesta or what have you and attracted the fishermen, the curious and the general public with bands, parades, fireworks and speeches.

Inevitably, perhaps, the celebrations came to have their small queens and smelt kings. These personable young people were elected by vote or selected by a committee and had the honor of appearing in public in tricky costumes and making brief but smelly speeches over public address system and the radio.

Purpose of the celebration was to attract attention to the fish that was new to the Great Lakes, and to the community where smelt were abundant. Many were the tricks of the promoters seeking smelt publicity, and how successful they were is still evident. The Middle West is still conscious of smelt, although the silvery little fish declined to the point where there were hardly enough to give a fishy smell to a frying pan.

CAUSE AND EFFECT—The ingenious publicity that placed the once-lowly smelt on nearly every table in the nation still has its effect. Art Jensen says that the "old customers" of years gone by, who remember Escanaba smelt as a dainty dish, are still trying almost all of the orders remain unfilled. Besides the individuals, there are letters from service clubs and other organizations that want to put on at least one smelt feed this spring.

"Dozens of letters and inquiries are coming in, some from as far away as North Carolina," said Art. "Right now there is no smelt, but there will be as soon as the run starts."

RUN PREDICTED—In the event you have forgotten all of the smelt publicity of the past, that informed you of the intimate details of the smelt's life, we'll run a refresher paragraph.

In the spring when the water reaches a certain warmed-up temperature and the rivers and creeks are free of ice, the egg-laden female smelt make their way up the streams from the bay to spawn.

the streams by the procreative function, that the fish are dipped by the billions. Or perhaps we billions for in the last three or four years the smelt mysteriously disappeared, until only a trickle of spawning smelt were observed in the spring.

THIS SPRING—Nature somehow balanced the scales and practically liquidated the smelt. Now they are coming back. Last week one Escanaba commercial fisherman netted 650 pounds of the small fish in two days just off Sand Point at the local harbor.

This and other indications of increasing numbers of smelt have caused commercial fishermen to predict a better smelt run this spring. That run should soon be under way, although efforts to forecast the exact time have often failed in the past because of factors which are yet little understood. Best indication of the approaching run is the movement of the smelt from deep water into shoal water. Whether that movement is under way now cannot be observed because fishermen are yet unable to get their boats out.

AND MORE DIPPERS—Should the spring smelt run approach sizeable proportions, the total dipped from Delta county streams should be large, local fish dealers believe. They base their prediction on the fact that smelt are in de-

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

Washington—Inside fact is that Secretary of War Patterson himself deserves chief credit for the investigation of the army's caste system. General Eisenhower heartily concurred in the move, but if it had not been for Patterson's recent trip to the Far East, the investigation might never have been started.

For the Secretary of War came back from that trip disturbed and alarmed over the temper of American troops. And having served as a buck private in the last war (his son entered as a private in this war) Patterson determined, when he returned to Washington, to get to the core of army morale.

Military science has brought great changes to the American army. The airplane, the tank, the atomic bomb have revolutionized the mechanical phases of warfare. But most people don't realize that there has been little basic change in the human side of warfare—the handling of men—since George Washington imported a German military genius, Baron Frederick Wilhelm Von Steuben, to reorganize the continental army.

That is what makes Secretary Patterson's probe of the caste system the most important and revolutionary move since Von Steuben's day.

—GENERALS PLAY FAVORITES—
They also boiled with resentment over the way certain high-ranking officers played their favorites. For instance, here is a telegram from Maj. Gen. Willis D. Crittenden, then stationed at Rome, which he sent to headquarters at Lehigh, asking a special decoration for a friend, so he could get discharged. The telegram read:

"AG4580 confidential. I urgently desire to have Captain Henry Frost return to homeland on 4th Corps boat. If Captain Hickey has enough points to go, could not Frost be appointed my aide instead of Hickey and go with Corps as such? Otherwise draft bronze star oak leaf cluster for Frost for my approval. Try aide plan first. (signed) Crittenden."

In other words, General Crittenden wanted to get his friend, Capt. Henry Frost, returned to the USA. And had the nerve to ask for a special bronze star plus oak leaf cluster for him, thus giving him ten additional discharge points. This award is supposed to go to a man for valor in action or a special service to his country. If any enlisted man had asked for such a special favor, he would have promptly been put in his place. But not General Crittenden. The caste system protected him.

Here are some other products of the caste system which make G. I. blood boil and which Secretary Patterson's committee might well investigate:

1. At Christmas, Col. Rollen Anthis, commander of the Cazes air base at Casablanca, hopped across the Atlantic to spend the holidays at home, then hopped back across the Atlantic afterward, leaving hundreds of G. I.'s smarting over this special privilege. All they could do was write letters home about it—which they did, and this columnist got plenty.

2. The sergeant who helped beat up American soldiers at the Litchfield prison camp in England was sentenced to jail, while the colonel in command, Col. James A. Killian, a regular army officer, was recommended for promotion.

—G. I. COURT MARTIAL—
3. On Oct. 23, 1945, Lieut. Col. Ernest G. Brunger was court martialed on a charge of transporting in a government plane from San Francisco to Hawaii 44 cases of pin-ball and coin games, and receiving a $1,000 diamond as a gift from the owner of the gambling machines. He was merely fined $250 and reprimanded. On about the same date, at the same base, Pvt. Wilford K. Isaacs was court martialed for desertion and given three years at hard labor.

4. In December 1944, during the height of the war, when every plane was needed, a brand new B-29, costing the taxpayer $900,000, was received by the Twentieth Bomber Command at Karagapur, India. Turrets, armor-plate, guns and other armaments were stripped, and the bomber was equipped with lounging chairs, sound-proofing, refrigerator and electric stove—all for the private use of Gen. Curtis LeMay. LeMay was transferred to the Marianas before the job was completed. This new B-29 was needed for the assault on Japan and a transport plane could have been used by LeMay at a fraction of the cost.

5. In May 1945, at the height of the attacks on Japan, a brand new P-38 was fitted up at Bangalore, India, with a special forward compartment, leather upholstered, sound-proofed, built-in thermos jug and especially made plastic cups—all for the use of Lieut. Gen. George E. Stratemeyer, commander of the Burma-India theatre. Cost of the plane was $100,000. Cost of modifying it—$10,000. Yet Stratemeyer, who had several other planes, used it only three times. The modification of these private planes was given priority over bombers and transports badly needed in the Burma campaign.

—FANCY BRASS-HAT TRAILERS—
6. In February 1945, a complete shop for the overhaul of instruments was torn out of a 25-foot, 8-ton instrument trailer which was then equipped with veneer walls, lounge chairs, a sleeping compartment, stenographer's desk, rug and air-conditioning, together with an engraved plaque costing $20 and inscribed: "Presented to Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer by the India-Burma Air Service Command."

Escanaba Daily Press Plans "Trees Forever" Poster Contest

CASH AWARDS ARE OFFERED

Button Design Sought; Plaques Planned At School Forests

A poster contest for the presentation of ideas from which to design individual buttons for the "Trees Forever" program sponsored by the Escanaba Daily Press was announced yesterday. Cash prize awards totalling $25 will be presented to winners. All school children are eligible to submit entries.

A first prize award of $10 will be made for the poster adjudged to present the best idea for the "Trees Forever" button. There will be a $5 award for second place, $3 for third place and seven awards of $1 each.

The contest is open to students of all schools and all grades in the Daily Press territory. Each school will be requested to select the five best entries from that school and the final judging will be made by a competent committee.

The poster entries must be submitted to the Escanaba Daily Press by Monday, April 15, at which time the judges will make the selections for the cash awards.

Simplicity of design, as well as appropriate expression of the reforestation principle, will be stressed in the poster contest. Student artists are asked to bear in mind in planning their entries that the purpose of the contest is to select a suitable design that can be used on a "Trees Forever" button. The design ultimately selected will be drawn by a Daily Press artist from ideas obtained from the poster entries.

The "Trees Forever" buttons will be distributed by the Daily Press to all youngsters who plant trees in community, 4-H or school forests.

In addition, the Escanaba Daily Press will present a suitable memorial "Trees Forever" plaque to be erected at the site of such forest projects.

The posters submitted for the contest should include the "Trees Forever" title.

Cost Of Building Recently Approved Here About $16,300

The permits indicate that several of the builders will make use of some second hand materials in their construction and additions.

Vinette; alterations, new brick front and 60x25 addition to rear of Veterans of Foreign Wars building, 1305 Ludington street, estimated cost, $3,000; new dwelling at 430 S. 13th St., estimated cost, $2,500, owner, Peter Kobosic; two room addition to Vital Eli home at 1517 N. 18th St., estimated cost, $500.

Rayons Should Be
Ironed With Care

By NEA Service

With a little care, washable rayon spring and summer dresses can be ironed to look as fresh and sparkling as new. In general, rayon shirtings, jerseys and crepe should be ironed with a warm iron, while all the spun rayon family of fabrics needs a better iron. Rayons should always be ironed on the wrong side to preserve surface texture.

"Professional" looking results are obtained if you iron shoulders with the help of a tailor's cushion. Iron into but never across gathers. If a dress has pleats, iron the hem and the whole skirt on the wrong side. Then put in the pleats on the right side with a press cloth over the fabric.

Polish Matches
Tortoise Frames

Beauty trick is to harmonize nail polish color with eyeglass frames.

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

At last eye-glasses have made the grade as a beauty accessory. The proof—offered to girls who think aids to good vision are a blight to good looks—is a new nail polish shade keyed to the color of tortoise shell frames.

Among the first to recognize the possibilities of chic in making a match between shining nails and tortoise-shell glasses were top-flight fashion models. Now, it's any girl's formula for smartness who wants to use it for making either corrective glasses or her anti-glare shields qualify as beauty accessories.

What's more, say the models who have added this new trick to their repertoire, you can ring in a lipstick in a tortoise-shell shade and keep any discordant note out of your color scheme.

New Rice Is Easier To Cook,
Retains Flavor and VitaminsBY CARLE HODGE
AP Newsfeature Writer

New Look—There's a new kind of rice, heralded as a "notable" food contribution to the American housewife's future. It developed from a horseback ride in California in 1933.

The new rice is the product of a process devised by a young Persian-American, Milton Wanan-Malek. It seals in to each grain the healthful bran layer that is lost in the age-old "polishing" method.

As a result, Malek says, the rice:

Retains 85 percent of the grain's natural vitamins;
Cooks into a fluffy, non-lumpy dish, holding natural flavor. Each grain cooks separately;
Is virtually impregnable to insects.

For the civilian table, though, all this is yet to come. Large-scale production will be impossible for months, perhaps not until next year, because UNRRA has bought up most of the 1946 rice crop for overseas relief shipments. The Army quartermaster general's office has called Malek's work "one of the notable food contributions to come out of the war."

Actually, though, it began long before Pearl Harbor. No scientist, Malek, now 36, husky and black-eyed, had been a collector of ancient arts. In 1933, he went horseback riding with a friend in California. The friend told him that rice growers there were unable to find markets for their bumper crop. Rice was rotting, unwanted, in the swampy fields.

Malek never had seen a rice field, but in the slushy paddies he saw a challenge. Why, he asked himself, do Americans eat so little rice?

Researching on his own—often he had so little money that he walked to his borrowed laboratory to save bus fare—he decided that poor cooking was the reason.

Experimenting with pre-cooked and canned rice, he learned of the "parboiling" method by which orientals have for centuries steamed-bathed raw rice to seal in the bran, and concentrated on that. Streamlined — improved and adapted for modern mills — he made it the Malekized system?

First, in his process, field rice is soaked in temperature-controlled water which opens pores in the grain. Then steam pressure blasts the brownish bran layer into the inner kernel.

Finally, the rice is mechanically cooled and dried. As it dries and hardens, the bran's vitamin content is locked inside.

Outer husks then are removed. In the older milling process, which later strips off the bran layer, husk removal is the first step.

Malekized rice, before cooking, is darker—and harder than polished rice. It is less starchy than brown rice, grain that has been de-husked but not polished, and is more likely to retain the complete bran layer.

University of California scientists and the National Research Council confirmed the retained vitamin benefit of Malek's rice.

When war came, the Army, particularly interested in its keeping qualities, took virtually all the Malekized rice that could be turned out. It also took Malek.

He wore khaki too and a half years — most of the time as instructor at a dehydrated foods school at Ft. Meade, Md.

Now two $350,000 factories at Stuttgart, Ark., and Sacramento, Calif., are being completed to mill rice by the Malek process, and a process equipment company is building machinery for other plants. Inquiries have come from a half-dozen countries.

A New York book shop has what seems a good answer to the problem of how to decorate a child's room when the youngster has outgrown the infant-nursery type of decoration. This shop has paintings of various sizes, suitable for murals whose subjects are sure to please Junior or his pre-teen sister. There are a fine dappled pony, wearing a bright yellow hat and a rearing zebra and a spirit-like, dancing horse, all beplumed like an equine circus star, and many other exciting subjects.

The milk bottle was invented by Dr. Hervey D. Thatcher, of Potsdam, New York.

Behind Russia's Curtain

Finland Owes Much to President Paasikivi

President Juho Kusti Paasikivi of Finland... the country's leading exponent of amity with Russia, a personal friend of Stalin's for many years but politically a conservative. Yet Stalin prefers this Chamber of Commerce member to any Finnish communist as head of the government.

By JOACHIM JOESTEN

NEA Special Correspondent
New York (NEA)—That Finland today still is a relatively free and democratic country, she owes above all to the wisdom and diplomatic skill of President Juho Kusti Paasikivi, who recently succeeded President Mannerheim.

In view of the fact that Paasikivi not only is Finland's chief exponent of amity with Russia but also has been for years a personal friend of Stalin's, it is natural to presume that he must be at least a parlor pink.

The opposite is true. Paasikivi's career has been about as revolutionary as that of Herbert Hoover, and even today his political and economic views are no redder than those of, say, Erick Johnston. Yet Stalin would rather have him run the country than any Finnish communist.

There is no great mystery in this seeming paradox. Paasikivi's outstanding characteristics are as solid and reliable as Brooklyn Bridge; he has stood for more than half a century where he stands today. He may have brushed up and modernized his views a bit here and there, yet essentially he is the same man who has always been. Nothing could sway or swerve him.

He is the type of man Stalin likes to do business with. He is able, sound, has a sense of humor. A Finnish patriot, a well-to-do banker, and a conservative politician, he nevertheless has given ample proof of his desire to get along with Russia and he has an open mind for all ideologies, including communism.

Paasikivi is no quivering. He can't be ordered or kicked around. Yet he will accept the necessities of a given situation and once he has given his word you can build a skyscraper on it.

In spite of his deceptively Finnish-sounding name, and of his genuine Finnish patriotism, Paasikivi is not really a Finn. He comes from pure Swedish stock.

His father, Johan August Hellsten, a merchant, belonged to the Swedish minority which centuries ago settled on Finland's west and south coasts and gained a controlling influence on the country's economic and social life. His mother, Karolina, also was a Swedo-Finn.

Undramatic Start
Born on Nov. 27, 1870, at Tampere (Tammerfors), he was christened Johan Gustav Hellsten, but later he "Finnified" his name.

Physically, Paasikivi is thick-set, with a square head, ruddy face and bushy gray hair. He has been married twice and has a grown-up daughter, Anni. Paasikivi's start in life was easy and undramatic. After studying law at Finnish, Swedish and German universities, he went into the banking and insurance business. He soon gained a reputation as a financier and fiscal expert.

For 20 years, from 1914 on, he was managing director of the State-owned Kansallis Osake Bank and during most of this time he was also vice-president of the Helsinki Stock Exchange. Since 1928, he has headed the Finnish section of the International Chamber of Commerce.

He entered public life in 1907, when he was elected a member of the Diet. The following year he became Minister of Finance of Finland, which at that time still was a semi-autonomous Grand Duchy under Russian rule. After the emancipation of his country, he held the premiership for a brief period in 1918.

A significant phase of Paasikivi's life began in 1920 when he was asked to head the Finnish peace delegation which negotiated the Treaty of Dorpat on Oct. 14. Thus it was Paasikivi who ended Finland's first war with Soviet Russia and secured his country's existence as an independent state. Little did he know then that he would have to repeat the performance over and over again.

In 1936, Paasikivi was sent as Minister to Stockholm. There he met Soviet Russia's famous woman ambassador, Mme. Alexandra Kollontay, with whom he established personally amicable relations despite the persistent tension between their countries.

Later, this friendship proved a great asset in Finland's efforts to get out of the war. And quite recently it was reported from Stockholm that Paasikivi had nominated his former official antagonist but personal friend, Kollontay, as a candidate for the 1946 Nobel Peace Prize—a unique event in the annals of international diplomacy.

The great test of Paasikivi's statesmanship came in October 1939 when he was recalled from his Stockholm post to head the Finnish mission to Moscow which sought in vain to reach a peaceful settlement of Russia's territorial demands.

Paasikivi probably would have succeeded in this arduous task but for the arrival, a few weeks later, of Foreign Minister Vaino Tanner, who blocked all concessions made by the former and thus caused the breakdown of negotiations.

(On Feb. 21, 1946, Tanner was sentenced to five and a half years in prison by a "war guilt tribunal" in Helsinki.)

Despite the underlying gravity of the talks, the atmosphere in Moscow was genial and at times downright playful, thanks to Paasikivi's good humor and quiet composure. While Tanner and Molotov bargained heatedly, Paasikivi swapped jokes with Stalin.

Jokes With Stalin
Some of these were of the grim variety the Soviet dictator particularly delights in. Once when Stalin threatened to hurl 2,000,000 men against Finland, Paasikivi is said to have replied with a chuckle: "Dear me, where on earth do you think we could bury that many in our little country?"

As it was, a lot of Russians—and Finns—were buried during the short but bloody "winter war" that followed the collapse of these negotiations. When it was over, it was again Paasikivi who led the peace delegation to Moscow and there signed the peace of March 12, 1940.

A few weeks later, he was named Finnish Minister to Moscow where he stayed until the renewed outbreak of war in June 1941. Paasikivi thoroughly disapproved of the Finnish alliance with Germany and he labored persistently to bring about a separate peace between his country and Russia.

At least twice, in September 1942 and again in February 1944, he turned up unofficially in Stockholm to talk things over with Mrs. Kollontay, but each time the war party in Helsinki nullified his efforts.

When Finland eventually was forced to sue for an armistice, in September 1944, Paasikivi kept in the background but a close friend of his, Premier Antti Hackzell, headed the new peace delegation to Moscow.

This time Finland, amputated again and subjected to a Soviet-dominated Control Commission, was in real danger of being swallowed up by Russia. Again Paasikivi came to the rescue, assuming the premiership on Nov. 17, under the most trying conditions.

Upon taking office, he promised to work in mutual understanding with the Soviet Union and meticulously to fulfill the armistice terms. So he did, while at the same time guarding what is left of Finland's independence and seeking to alleviate its burdens.

It is a measure of Paasikivi's statesmanship that he is liked and trusted both by his people and the Kremlin. He has tied Finland closely to Russia in matters of Foreign policy and trade, and he has accepted Communist influence in the government.

Yet, as long as he is president, his country will not become a Soviet republic or anything like it.

President 'Shoots' At Admiral Nimitz; Naval Budget Cut

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Washington, March 21. (AP)—President Truman stepped into a navy-budget bureau feud over funds today with a declaration that a navy statement was not in line with facts.

A White House official who did not want his name used said Mr. Truman was "shooting" at Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, chief of naval operations.

With presidential sanction, the budget bureau trimmed $2,100,000,000 from the $6,325,000,000 the navy wants for the year starting July 1.

Nimitz testified to the house naval committee Tuesday that this would "jeopardize the influence of our nation in world affairs and the defense of our homeland." He said it would reduce the number of fighting ships in the fleet by 114 and the fleet's manpower by 63,000.

Just why the budget bureau whacked a third from the amount the navy wants has not yet been brought out. But Rep. DeLacy (D-Wash.) surmised at the navy committee session that it was in preparation for the army-navy merger. The navy fought the idea of a single department of defense up to the time President Truman backed it.

PENSION PLAN STUDIED HERE

City Manager To Advise Commission At Next Meeting

Several pension plans which could be put into use for city employees are being analyzed by City Manager H. J. Henrikson who will report on them at a regular meeting of the city commission Monday evening.

However, before a plan is adopted it is likely that the city will have a survey made by an expert in this field.

A request for pension was made by city employees by petition at the last regular meeting.

Two plans have been studied by Manager Henrikson. In both the city and employee are contributors, employees paying in five per cent of their salary.

Both plans call for a minimum of 60 years of age before being eligible to retire. Under one plan the employee could qualify for pension at the proper age regardless of how long employed and the pension would be based on amount contributed to the fund. A second plan calls for a minimum of 15 years employment and under this plan the maximum pension would probably run 50 per cent of the employee's annual salary.

ON JOB MONDAYNorthwoods Workers To Get Raise But Strike
Not Yet Settled

Employees of the Northwoods Manufacturing company, on strike since Monday, have agreed to return to work next Monday, tentatively accepting the company's concession of a five cent per hour wage raise.

The disagreement concerning an increase in pay is still unsettled and when negotiations are again resumed the company will have to deal with an affiliate of the AF of L, as 24 of the company's 35 employees voted this week to affiliate with the carpenters and joiners brotherhood of the American Federation of Labor.

They elected Emanuel Getraut president pro-tem of the local; W. D. Young, secretary, and Cliff Gauthier, committeeman.

Albert W. Locking, representative of the union from Marquette, was present to assist in forming the organization.

The union later conferred with Charles Slinning Sr., of the Northwoods company and the agreement for a temporary truce was reached after Slinning agreed to recognize the organization.

Also present at this conference were John Lucke, Escanaba, commissioner of conciliation of the U. S. Department of Labor, and James Greenfield, Lansing, of the State Labor Mediation Board.

Negotiations will be resumed when the local receives its charter.

Accident Victim
Is Granddaughter
Of W. Rodman, Sr.

The accidental death in Detroit Thursday, of little Barbara Jean Jenks, five-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Jenks, brought sadness to several Manistique homes. The child's mother was the former Barbara Rodman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Rodman Sr., of this city.

The child was accidentally hanged while playing in her yard with a rope thrown over a clothes line. The little girl apparently tried tightening the knot about her neck before throwing the loose end onto the clothes line. Investigation showed that she fell, tightening the knot about her neck. The child's body was discovered by her brother, Lawrence, age 12.

The Jenks family had two children.

Mr. and Mrs. William Rodman Sr. and son, William Jr., and Miss Lillian Schultz left Friday for Detroit to attend the funeral which will be in Detroit on Monday morning.

The disease rate in Holland increased 70 per cent in one year under Nazi domination.

Local Florida
Visitor Views
Unusual Sight

J. H. Van Dyck, of Manistique, who with Mrs. Van Dyck are spending the winter at Dunedin, Florida, has sent a clipping from a Florida newspaper which indicates something very much out of the ordinary, for even that busy winter resort.

A school of whales, passing through the shoals of some nearby keys, became stranded and people by the thousands are flocking to that area to view the strange sight.

These whales are near an island just off the mainland and owners of any kind of a skiff are raking in the coin charging $1 for the less than a mile ride.

The city of Pass-a-Grille, not far from where the huge creatures are beached, is planning to get rid of them (for obvious reasons) and residents of the area—particularly shops selling camera supplies and articles catering to the tourist trade—are cashing in on the sensation.

On Panama Key, several fishermen vainly tried to pry some of them into deeper water, but the whales just swam about and then headed straight for shore.

Some of the whales weighed over two and one-half tons.

Speculation as to why the whales beached themselves is varied. Some think the huge mammals sought shallow water as protection from their mortal enemy, the shark, and ran aground. Others believe the school became sick and that in such instances the leader leads the whole school to a mass suicide. Still others think that the whales have been feeding off the bait seen recently in Pass-a-Grille Channel, became confused and ran aground.

Whatever the reason, Pass-a-Grille is hundreds of dollars richer.

School Library
Is Theme Of PTA Program

The public library at Central school was the scene of the Lake-side Central P. T. A. meeting on Thursday night, when the annual library meeting was presented. A clever skit under the sponsorship of Mrs. Dorothy Shipman, delighted the audience. Robert Martin, whose lines were in poetic form and composed by Mrs. Shipman, acted as librarian and introduced the following representatives of the junior and senior high schools, who reported on books they had read and enjoyed as follows: "The Heart of a Dog," Terhune, by Gayle Lundstrom, seventh grade; "Tree Toad," Bob Davis, by Nadine Westin, eighth grade; "Red Rock," Paine, by Mildred Kerridge, freshman; "The Count of Monte Cristo," Dumas, by Dan Giovannini, sophomore; "Two Gentlemen of Verona," Shakespeare, by William Eck, junior; and "Pastor: Knight of the Laboratory," Benz, by June Grimes, senior. Two students, Tom Kennedy and John Hockstead, in constant need of the librarian's attention, added a note of humor to the skit.

Two moving picture films were also shown, one a colored film entitled "Our Public Schools," and the other on Radar.

Plans were made at this meeting to have the annual spring dance on May 3, and for a fat salvage drive to be held Friday, March 29.

Hostesses for this meeting were mothers of the first and second grade rooms of Central and Lakeside schools with Mrs. Howard Gaff, Mrs. N. L. Lindquist, Mrs. Roger Smith, Mrs. Elwood Taylor and Mrs. Ralph Williams as acting committee.

The attendance banners were again won by the first and second grade at Central and the fifth and sixth grade at Lakeside.

What's the worst livestock pest?

My ANSWER is cattle grub or warbles, as they're sometimes called.

The annoyance to cattle, drop in milk production, slowing of gains, holes in cowhides make cattle grub the No. 1 parasite on American farms.

Kill cattle grub with CATTLE GRUB KILLER, a Dr. Hess product. This product is made from Derris (active ingredient) and Tripoli Earth (inert ingredient). It is the formula recommended by the U.S.D.A. The Tripoli Earth carries the Derris down through the hair to the animal's skin where it can get at and destroy these costly pests.

We suggest that you stock up with CATTLE GRUB KILLER now. Then watch your cattle for the tell-tale "bumps" on the back and use this product as directed!

COACHES CUSS TALL TOSSERS

Basketball Giants Get Verbal Beating At Convention

BY AUSTIN BEALMEAR
New York, March 22 (AP)—Basketball's giants, object of most of the game's major rule changes in recent years, took another verbal beating at the annual convention of the National Basketball Coaches' Association today, although nobody was quite sure what could be done about them.

An informal vote taken after a heated two-hour discussion, however, indicated that some form of check on the effectiveness of extra tall players would be recommended to the rules-makers at the concluding session of the convention tomorrow.

Blair Gullion of Connecticut was elected president of the association, succeeding Edward J. Hickok of Springfield (Mass.) college, who was named to the board of directors, and W. H. Browne of Nebraska was re-elected first vice president.

Other officers named were Howard Hobson, Oregon, second vice president; Forrest Cox, Colorado, third vice president; and Herbert Read, Western Michigan, secretary-treasurer. New directors, in addition to Hickok, are Jack Gray, Texas; John Lowther, Penn State; Vadal Peterson, Utah; and Adolph Rupp, Kentucky.

Leading the fight for additional rules to curb the taller players were the veteran Nat Holman of CCNY, who said he was "strongly opposed to the game as it's played today," and Bruce Drake of Oklahoma, who declared he wanted to see the big boys "earn their baskets."

"There are more than a million boys playing college basketball today," Drake said. "Yet the game is controlled by less than 50 fellows who happen to be more than six feet, nine inches tall."

Wilbur Johns, UCLA coach, headed the minority opposition. "I'm wondering if we're on the right track," he said. "If we're looking for some way to make it easier for us to coach, why wouldn't it be just as smart to legislate against a trick dribbler or a man who shoots with either hand?"

Most of the proposals for tightening the handcuffs on the big boys advocated a change in the dimensions of the free throw lane, thus enlarging the so-called "three-second area" and forcing

Manager Of Tigers Weeds Out Roster

Lakeland, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Outright release of three players and optional release of 12 others, subject to 24-hour recall, to Detroit farm clubs were announced today by Detroit Tigers General Manager George M. Trautman.

Infielder Murray Franklin goes to Buffalo of the International league, and pitcher Robert Uhle and outfielder Harold Hirschop to Dallas of the Texas league on outright releases.

On option to Buffalo go pitchers Roy Clark, Denny Horton, Art Houtteman and Bill Pierce; catcher Harvey Riebe and Martin Taback; infielders Cornelius Berry, Johnny McHale and Ansel Moore, and outfielder Victor Wertz. Dallas gets catcher Burl Storer and first baseman Bob Moyer on option.

Trautman hinted the possible sale of two recruit catchers, Russell Kerns, and Milton Welch, to the Lakeland club of the Florida International league.

Swiss Skier Wins In Downhill Race

Zermatt, Switzerland, March 22 (AP)—American skiers finished thirteenth, fourteenth and fifteenth today in the international five and a half kilometer downhill race that went to Edi Rominger of Switzerland in four minutes, six seconds.

Pvt. Robert Bourdon of the U. S. Army, led Lt. Leon Goodman and Lt. Robert Blatt across the finish for the Americans in that order. Bourdon's time was four minutes, 34 seconds.

Bantamweight Ring Champ Will Retire

El Centro, Calif., March 22 (AP)—Manuel Ortiz, bantamweight champion of the world, announced today that he will retire from boxing in the near future.

Resting at his ranch here after the torrid 15-round draw he fought in Los Angeles Tuesday night with California Featherweight Champion Carlos Chavez, Ortiz said he might fight a few times in England before he hangs up his gloves.

the tall players farther back from the goal.

Other suggestions ranged from the adoption of various sized arcs that would put all players equidistant from the goal on free throws to complete reversal of the present free throw lane and circle, putting the circle under the goal.

LITTLE GIANTS VS. CEDARVILLE

Lock City Team Defeats Lake Linden, 39-38, At Ironwood

Two Delta county teams will be in the finals of the U. P. basketball championships at Ironwood tonight, the Escanaba high school Eskymos meeting the Soo Blue Devils in the Class B finals and the Rock Little Giants opposing Cedarville in the Class D championship fringes.

In the semi-final games yesterday afternoon and last evening, Champion defeated Grand Marais, 43 to 33 in Class E. Rock trimmed Greenland, 35 to 31, in Class D. Norway shellacked Crystal Falls, 67 to 49 in Class C and Sault Ste. Marie nipped Lake Linden, 39 to 38 in Class B.

The pairings in the championship games tonight follow:

Champion vs. Alpha, Class E, 6:00 p. m.
Rock vs. Cedarville, Class D, 7:15 p. m.

Newberry vs. Norway, Class C, 8:30 p. m.

Escanaba vs. Sault Ste. Marie, Class B, 9:45 p. m.

The feature game on the tournament program last night was the Class B thriller in which the Soo Blue Devils trailed Lake Linden for more than three quarters before finally punching out a 39-38 victory. The Blue Devils rallied strongly in the final period and at one time drew a six point lead.

The Lakes quintet, put on a strong finish, however, and were threatening seriously right up to the final gun.

Norway's vaunted steamroller trailed Crystal Falls at half time, 30-26 in a free scoring duel but the Vikings turned the game into a rout in the last half, scoring 19 points in the third frame and 20 in the final. DeBakker led the attack with 22 points.

Rock's Little Giants fought an uphill battle to defeat Greenland, 35-31. Greenland held a 13-5 lead at the end of the opening period and still was on top at half time, 19-15, although the big guns of the Little Giants were firing heavily by this time. The third period was unusually slow, with Rock scoring four points to only two for Greenland, but Greenland still held a narrow advantage, 21-19.

It was in the final stanza that the Delta county team poured on the oil, contributing 16 points to 10 for Greenland. Kleiber delivered 15 points for Rock and Lo-back scored 12 for Greenland.

Champion had less difficulty with Grand Marais in the opening game of the Friday tournament session and won going away, 43-33.

In tonight's finals, the Class B championship game stacks up as another thriller with the Eskymos and Soo Blue Devils meeting for the U. P. title. Escanaba defeated the Soo, 27-22, at Sault Ste. Marie on February 1 and the Blue Devils have been itching to get even.

Coach Rouman is expected to start Ross and Ohman at forwards, Jack Finn at center, Don Scott and Dufour guards.

Newberry, conqueror of L'Anse, defending Class C champion, will be faced with a tough proposition against the high scoring Norway quintet in the Class C finals.

The Rock-Cedarville battle likewise looks as a bitter struggle with two evenly matched teams. They did not meet during the regular season.

Alpha is rated as a favorite over Champion in the Class E championship game.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

For a story — book basketball thriller, the Escanaba-Ironwood game Thursday night equaled anything the fiction writers could have concocted. It was a stirring battle between two courageous teams. In their pride of the Eskymos for their victorious uphill victory, local fans could not help but feel a deep sense of admiration, too, for the Ironwood Red Devils. The true greatness of the Escanaba team was exemplified in the spirited second period rally.

In the semi-final games yesterday afternoon and last evening, Champion defeated Grand Marais, 43 to 33 in Class E. Rock trimmed Greenland, 35 to 31, in Class D. Norway shellacked Crystal Falls, 67 to 49 in Class C and Sault Ste. Marie nipped Lake Linden, 39 to 38 in Class B.

ATHLETICS LACK RIGHT FIELDER

Mack Willing To Part With Pitcher If He Can Make Deal

BY JACK HAND
West Palm Beach, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Connie Mack is desperate for a power-hitting right fielder and is willing to part with one of his brigade of starting pitchers to make the deal.

"We should be better than last year," said the 83-year-old baseball patriarch who is the spryest of the club's managers. "But the other clubs are better too. We just do not have enough power and our outfield needs strengthening very badly."

The A's actually are deep in starting pitchers although some of them might not be regulars with any other club.

Russ Christopher would be snapped up in a hurry if he were placed on the block but many others would not draw a nibble. Jesse Flores had a disappointing year in 1945 and Bobo Newsom, lighter than ever and reportedly in a mood for pitching, has made the rounds.

The outfield is strong enough as far as it goes but it only goes as far as two. Left fielders Ford Garmon and center fielder Sam Chapman will do. Mack has been trying a young man named Ray Poole and two converted infielders called Vern Benson and Don Richmond in the other garden. The right field situation truly is desperate.

George McQuinn, who recently reconsidered an earlier decision to retire after he was traded to the A's by St. Louis for Dick Siebert, is playing first base with Benny (45,000) McCoy on second. Rookie Jack Wallasea is at short and George Kell at third. Wallasea is the only newcomer of the bunch, a slim six-foot-three-inch lad from Easton, Pa., who has shown enough at the platter to bat third in the order. Jack Caulfield is a shortstop candidate. Pete Suder is trying for third and there are four men after McCoy's job at second.

Buddy Rosar is the top catcher backed up by Jim Pruett, back from Toronto where he hit .303, and Gene Desautels.

Horses Nominated For Derby Trial

BY JOHN GIBSON

Louisville, Ky., March 22 (AP)—Nominations for the one-mile $10,000 added derby trial, to be run on the Tuesday preceding the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs on Saturday, May 4, include 96 of the 149 three-year-olds eligible for the 72nd "run for the roses."

Included in the trial entry list, as announced today by Col. Matt Winn, Churchill Downs president, were Knockdown, winner of the Santa Anita derby, along with five other three-year-olds from the Maine Chance farm, and Hal Price Headley's Pellicle, winner of the Louisiana derby.

Only horses nominated for the derby are eligible for the trial, which is the last of a series of important prep races for the Churchill Downs classic. Its running will be the start of the Downs' stake-a-day for the remainder of derby week.

Although no winner of the derby by trial since its first running in 1938 has won the derby on the following Saturday, three of the placed horses in the trial have been derby winners. They are Lawrin in 1933, Gallahadi in 1940, and Whirlaway in 1941.

Mauriello Takes Thomas On TKO

Detroit, March 22 (AP)—Tami Mauriello, 194, of New York scored a technical knockout over John Thomas, 185, of New York in the third round of an action packed bout before 7,804 fans at Olympia tonight.

Mauriello, rated No. 4 among the nation's heavyweights, had to win the hard way as he took a two-count trip to the canvas in the first round of the scheduled 10-rounder.

Mauriello weathered the round and in the second opened a terrific body attack that blasted Thomas to the canvas just before the round ended. The count had reached nine when the bell ended the session.

The heavier Tami wasted little time in renewing the warfare in the third as he dumped Thomas for nine and eight counts in succession. Thomas came bouncing back up but was unable to offer any defense as Mauriello charged in. Referee Johnny Webber halted the fight just before the round ended.

Preliminaries, witnessed by the crowd which paid $18.881 to see the main go, included a four-round decision by Bill Stemmler, 154½, of Windsor over Paul Darby, 159½, of Detroit.

TEACHERS WILL RECEIVE BONUS

Distribution Of State Appropriation Is Planned

The Escanaba public schools will receive $8,639.40 as its share of the emergency state aid appropriation of $3,200,000 and will distribute this fund as a bonus to its employees. It has been announced by Supt. John A. Lemmer.

The emergency appropriation totaled $6,400,000 but only half is to be distributed this year on a basis of $3.40 per child in school membership. Next year an increased membership is anticipated with a proportionate decrease in payment per child.

The distribution to school employees will be made upon the basis of $35 to teachers whose current salary is in excess of $100 over the salary schedule and $86 to teachers whose current salary is less than $100 over the salary schedule.

Virtually all teachers are receiving annual salaries in excess of the established salary schedule because of wartime emergencies but teachers who have been in the school system longer have received less emergency increases above the schedule than the new teachers. Supt. Lemmer explained that this policy was forced by the acute teacher shortage, necessitating much higher starting salaries than provided for in the salary schedule.

In recognition of this fact, the larger bonuses from the state appropriation will be made to the teachers who have received the smallest emergency increases in salaries.

Employees not working full time will receive $36 and employees who have not worked for the school district the entire year will receive a proportionate share based upon the number of weeks worked. The checks for the bonuses will be given to school employees as soon as the money is received, probably between May 15 and June 1.

DeGaulle's Role In War Disputed

BY W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Staff Reporter
New York, March 22 (AP)—Is Gen. Charles De Gaulle angel or devil?

To millions of people in this country as well as in Europe, he has been pretty much one or the other at various periods in the course of his spectacular role on the world stage from June 1940 until he recently resigned as head of the French state.

Two books now focus attention on him again. One, "I Accuse De Gaulle" (Harcourt, Brace; $2.75), by Henri De Kerillis, is published today (March 21). The other, "Casablanca to Katyn" (Scribner; $5), third volume in Waverly Root's "The Secret History of the War," was published Monday (March 18).

DeKerillis, journalist and former member of the French Parliament, was an early foe of Hitler, voted against Munich, opposed Pétain's armistice.

Root, American journalist abroad and mostly in Paris from 1927 to the fall of France, has been a radio news analyst. The first volumes of his "Secret History" were published by Scribner's last year.

Root devotes about a third of his nearly 500 pages to the French situation. De Kerillis' entire volume is about De Gaulle. The two authors agree in only one thing: De Gaulle's course at the time France surrendered was admirable. Root has continued, at least up to "Katyn," to favor the general, but De Kerillis now criticizes his "incredible career of adventurer, plundering the prestige and the glory of other men's heroism."

Greeley Expedition Survivor Stricken

Washington, March 22 (AP)—Brig. Gen. David L. Brainerd, 89, of Washington, last of the survivors of the Greeley Expedition to the Arctic, died tonight after a heart attack.

General Brainerd was a veteran of Western Indian wars, of the Spanish and World Wars. He retired in 1919 after 42 years in the Army.

He joined the expedition of Lt. Adolphus Greeley, in 1880, to set up outposts in the north. They reached Lady Franklin Bay, north of the Arctic Circle but became stranded. Survivors were rescued in 1884.

General Brainerd served as military attaché in U. S. embassies in Argentina and Portugal. He was born in Norway, N. Y., and is survived by his widow and one daughter, Mrs. Donald McVicker of New York City. Burial will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

Daylight Gem Theft Nets $40,000 Loot

Miami Beach, Fla., March 22 (AP)—Chief of Police Albert Simpson said today a daylight burglary of about $40,000 in jewels had been reported to his office, the second large gem theft here in a week.

Chief Simpson said the latest loss was reported by Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wagner, who said the theft sometime yesterday included a $95,000 diamond ring, two diamond necklaces, a platinum diamond wedding band and a pair of diamond earrings.

SOVIET CHIEF AFFIRMS HIS FAITH IN UNO

advocates of a new war and to secure the peace so that not a single action on the part of the advocates of new wars pass without due rebuttal on the part of the public and press; to expose the warmongers without loss of time and give them no opportunity of abusing the freedom of speech against the interests of peace.

TRUMAN NOT SURPRISED
Washington, March 22. (AP)—President Truman's reaction to Generalissimo Stalin's statement to AP Correspondent Eddy Gilmore was that he had always known that was exactly the way Stalin felt, a White House spokesman said tonight.

Stalin, replying to three questions submitted by Gilmore at Moscow, had expressed belief that neither the nations of the world nor their armies are seeking another war.

The Russian leader also affirmed his confidence in the United Nations as "a serious instrument" for preserving the peace.

Charles G. Ross, White House press secretary, described Mr. Truman's reaction during a news conference tonight.

The capital generally took the view that Stalin's message spells lasting peace if the generalissimo's deeds square with his words.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex.) of the senate foreign relations committee pretty well summed up the Capitol Hill reaction to Stalin's pronouncement for peace and the United Nations:

"The views expressed are in entire harmony with purposes of the United Nations Organization," Connally said.

Congressional variations from Connally's theme came only in the degree of readiness to accept Stalin's words at face value.

While officials and congressmen studied Stalin's comments, Soviet Ambassador Andrei A. Gromyko made an unheralded call on President Truman, but Charles Ross, White House press secretary, said it was only a courtesy visit.

Democrats Chip In $100 For Skippy Jackson Day Meal

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Washington, March 22. (AP)—President Truman's first avowed political speech tomorrow night is expected to stress the importance of liberalism and unity in the Democratic party and America's position of world leadership.

He speaks at 10:15 p. m. (EST) tomorrow to upwards of 2,000 party stalwarts at the Mayflower Hotel. They are chipping in $100 apiece for a relatively skimpy, "subsistence level" banquet—the annual Jackson day dinner sponsored by the Democratic national committee.

Some 300 dinners in other cities will raise more money for party coffers. Mr. Truman's address will reach all of them, and the entire country, over the four major radio networks.

Mr. Truman told a news conference yesterday many attempts had been made—and failed—to hold party members in line. He said also that tomorrow's speech definitely would be political but would omit any announcement that he will run for the presidency in 1948.

Eleven Warehouses Burn In Pittsburgh 6-Alarm Holocaust

Pittsburgh, March 22 (Friday) (AP)—A six-alarm fire, raging out of control over a three-block long stretch of the Wabash terminal warehouse and trestle in downtown Pittsburgh, gutted or damaged at least 11 wholesale warehouses and threatened to destroy the Wabash building itself early today.

Two hours after the fire broke out, it had raced along the trestle from First avenue to Liberty avenue and flames were licking upward near the $300,000 Wabash building. Firemen began to mass equipment near the nine-story office building in an effort to save it.

Just two weeks earlier a five-alarm fire ravaged the Jones and Brown building supply firm beside the Wabash office building and caused property damage of nearly $200,000.

As in the March 7 fire, a heavy pall of smoke covered the entire downtown area and almost obscured the fire area itself. Witnesses said the smoke was not quite so dense and acrid as in the earlier fire in which more than a score of firemen were overcome.

ICE PUSHED OUT BY NORTH WIND

Fishermen Prepare For Open Water Fishing On Green Bay

Strong northerly winds partly cleared Little Bay de Noc of ice yesterday in the first break-up of the season, opening the way for the start of 1946 shipping.

Escanaba's commercial fishermen, who have been readying their boats in preparation for open water fishing, yesterday were hoping the shove would be complete so they might start operations within a few days. Fish prices are high and smelt particularly are bringing the best prices in years because of their scarcity.

Wally Arntzen of the Pioneer Aviation corporation of Escanaba reported that a flight yesterday revealed open water south of Escanaba, except for occasional ice floes shoved out of Little and Big Bay de Noc. Cracks extended across Little Bay de Noc even north of Gladstone, and if the wind freshened the whole bay might be cleared in a matter of hours.

Dan Garrett, Escanaba light-house keeper, said that no information has yet been received from the Coast Guard on the date for setting out aids to navigation. The Coast Guard tenders start operations in the lower Great Lakes and work north. Usually they arrive at Escanaba shortly after the harbor is clear of ice.

MORE MINERS RESUME WORK AT ISHPERING

panies with attempting to break the union.

Hundreds of men still on strike staged an orderly demonstration at the Mather mine of the Cleveland-Cliffs Iron company this afternoon, jeering the day-shift workers as they came up from underground. Hundreds of Ishpeming residents watched the scene from nearby hillsides.

Henry Burkhammer, director of District 29, USW, will come here from Duluth Sunday to study the situation and will address a miners' mass meeting Monday.

There were no reports to indicate any back-to-work move on any of the other ranges in the Lake Superior region. Only the Oliver Iron Mining company, U. S. Steel subsidiary, has consented to the demands for 18½ cent pay boost.

Explosions Kill 2 In $1,000,000 Fire At Newark Refinery

Newark, O., March 22. (AP)—Two men were killed tonight in a series of four explosions and fire which destroyed a $1,000,000 unit of the Heath, O., refinery of the Pure Oil Co., three miles southwest of here. H. J. Hook, general foreman, said the men, both on duty at the time, were:

Nathaniel John Skarin Jr., 23, of Newark, veteran of World War II, former Denison university football player.

Benjamin Gerber, Jackson township.

Other officials of the plant said a third person may have died in the blaze and they are awaiting the cooling of the debris to make a search.

The first explosion at 7:38 p. m. occurred in the largest of the high pressure units converting oil to gasoline. Within 45 minutes, there were three other explosions.

Hook said only Skarin and Gerber were on duty in the plant.

The same unit of the refinery was destroyed seven years ago by fire and was rebuilt at a cost of $1,000,000. It produced 15,000 barrels of gasoline daily.

Refinery officials said 240 men normally are employed there.

Skarin, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Skarin, of Lemont, Ill., played tackle on the Denison university football team in 1944 before entering the army.

capacity in which he continued for several years.

Son Was Partner
On Nov. 11, 1912, Mr. Strom married Clara J. Wheaton, daughter of the late Peter J. Wheaton of Menominee. One son, Wheaton L., was born of the union. The son followed his father in the choice of a profession, and graduated from the University of Michigan law school in 1939. After practicing law in Grand Rapids, the son associated in January, 1941, with his father in the law firm of Strom & Strom in Escanaba.

Mr. Strom was a member of the Masonic Lodge in Escanaba, the Elks, the Knights of Pythias, and the North Star. He attended the Christian Science church.

Active in civic affairs, Mr. Strom was a past president and director of the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, and was a past secretary and president of the Delta County Fair Association. Well known among alumni of the University of Michigan, he was past president and a past director of the University of Michigan Clubs of the Upper Peninsula.

Expect Funeral Here
Surviving are the widow and one son, Lt. (jg) Wheaton L. Strom, who is serving with the U. S. Navy in San Francisco; two brothers, Charles L. Strom, Milwaukee, division superintendent for the C. & N. W. railroad; and Herman Strom, Cleveland, traffic manager for the Pittsburgh Steamship company; and one granddaughter, Karen.

Although definite arrangements for the funeral had not been made yesterday, it was indicated that the service and burial would take place here, rather than at Neenah. Mrs. Strom will be met in Chicago on Sunday by George Brown of Wells, whose daughter, Elaine, is the wife of Lt. (jg) Wheaton Strom. The body is expected to arrive in Escanaba Monday morning, and burial may be made in Gardens of Rest cemetery.

Lt. Strom and his wife and daughter are expected to come to Escanaba for the funeral if they can obtain transportation.

Makes 'em Practice What They Preach

Butte, Mont. (AP)—Busy talking about an Exchange club lecture they'd just heard, club members started to cross Main Street.

Mayor Barry O'Leary stopped them, pointing to whizzing cars and a red traffic control signal.

The men went back to the curb and waited for the green light, resuming discussion of the lecture—a talk on traffic safety.

COUNCIL OK'S TRAFFIC LIGHT

Other Action Taken At Regular Meeting On Thursday

Stop and go lights will eventually be placed at Tenth or Eleventh and Fourteenth and Ludington streets as a result of city council action at the extra long session Thursday night but it won't be for at least six months, City Manager A. V. Aronson said yesterday, as manufacturers of the traffic lights are unable to promise delivery before that time.

When the lights are secured they will be set up experimentally for a period of time at each of the several intersections named until it can be determined definitely where they are most needed.

Council gave permission again this year to the Skerbeck carnival to show here. The carnival opens here the week of May 11-19.

A permit to install a bath and toilet in a dwelling at 1224 North 21st street which was originally constructed by its owner as a garage and with that understanding with the city at the time the building permit was issued, was refused as the new additions would have to be placed next to the alley line of the property in violation of the zoning ordinance.

Council requested the city engineering department to check the stumpage on five acres of city property situated across the road from the dumping ground location in order to be in a position to evaluate the property which may be offered for sale.

A young petitioner who appeared before the council Thursday night, William Harvey, an Escanaba Senior high school student, politely requested the city fathers to look into the matter of finishing with concrete the portion of the tennis courts in Ludington park just below Lake Shore Drive and Fifth avenue which were never completed. A tennis enthusiast, Harvey explained that the courts in their present condition are hazardous because of the loose sand kicked on to the surface of the courts during play. Councilmen promised that the situation would be remedied as quickly as possible.

Representatives of the Escanaba Softball Association, city employees, the local yacht club, the Union Cab company, the Delta Transit, the Pioneer Aviation company and a considerable number of individual petitioners were interested attendees at Thursday's session but as the business which concerned them was taken up by the council, each group or individual departed and at midnight only five weary councilmen, the city clerk and the city manager remained.

Public Love-Making Of Yanks And Jap Women Prohibited

Tokyo, Mar. 22 (AP)—American soldiers strolling with arms around Japanese women, or making other public displays of affection, henceforth will be subject to imprisonment for disorderly conduct, Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger announced today.

The commander of the Eighth Army said no ban on "fraternization" was contemplated, but that such displays were in particularly poor taste and repugnant to both Japanese and Americans.

"Such action is prejudicial to good order and military discipline and will be treated as disorderly conduct."

"Military police will take offenders to local stockades from which individuals will be released only upon requests presented in person by their company commanders."

To Rent or Sell use the Classified

Even "Mickey," Mayor Sam Wickman's faithful dog, yawned and City Attorney Denis McGinn asked to be excused before the few remaining routine items were acted on.

The above report of council proceedings Thursday night is in addition to that in yesterday's edition of the Daily Press.

PLANES EXTEND RADIO COVERAGE

FM And Television Can Beelayed Over Vast Area

Columbus, O., March 21 (AP)—Planes used as radio relay stations make television and frequency modulation broadcasting economical and practical, C. E. Nobles of the Westinghouse Electric Corp. said today.

Nobles, originator of the new system of Airborne Radio transmission called "Stratovision," explained that previously the widest range of television and frequency modulation was 35 to 50 miles because those two kinds of radio waves travel in a straight line.

However, by using planes six miles high, the coverage was increased to 103,000 square miles or a circle about 400 miles in diameter, he added in a speech before the Sixth Annual Broadcast Engineering conference at Ohio State University.

The conference is sponsored by Ohio State and the University of Illinois.
